A person centered approach to coaching

CLARE SAUTTER
MS, PCC

MEET YOUR COACH

ABOUT CLARE

Clare Sautter, MS, PCC serves as coach to those that want to expand their presence, explore their meaning in the world and practice new ways of being and doing. She studied ontological coaching with the Newfield Network, Inc. She focuses on the client's way of being, language used, conversational patterns to partner with the client to create the shifts necessary to accomplish the client's goals.

The cornerstone of the coach/client relationship is trust. When you work with Clare Sautter, you know that confidentiality will be upheld and that she honors her commitments. You will get direct and honest communication and most of all you will know that she cares deeply about you and the world.

Among other tools, she uses reflective practice, creativity, and a great sense of humor to engage and connect with her clients.

WHO I LIKE TO COACH

My ideal clients are individuals who want to make a difference in the world. Whether you are an executive who wants to gain perspective on how you are perceived or a mid level-manager who wants to negotiate a complex environment (or something in between), my job is to partner with you to see a different way of being which opens up possibility for you and puts you on the path to achieve your goals. .

Preferred topics to coach on: Mid to Senior leaders

Preferred level of individual: The leader can bring any topic. We partner together to create value for the leader.

“ Clare is an empowering coach who isn't afraid to create disruption for the benefit of the leader she is coaching. When working with Clare, leaders learn about themselves, their work, their passions, and what they are yearning for in life. Clare doesn't bring about incremental change, she brings about change that is transformational and revolutionary.”
